

ABSTRACT

A cover adapted for use with a display screen of an image capturing device includes a cover capable of being positioned over the display screen. The cover is also capable of being retracted away from the display screen, such as by sliding the cover. A guide device retains the cover against a surface of the image capturing device.

10015542-1